

Job Opening: Director, Healing Nature Center

Comprised of a complex of trails, labyrinths, and workshop-retreat spaces, the Healing Nature Center's mission is to make the therapeutic properties of nature accessible to physical and psycho-emotional healthcare practitioners, their clients, and others in need. The Center's approach is to create a synergistic format by incorporating shamanic and Zen practices along with techniques based on contemporary neuroscience and epigenetics research. Primary areas of focus are trauma, stress and anxiety, relationship, self-discovery, reconnecting with nature, and physical healing support.

The Center's flagship tool is the Healing Nature Trail, a first-of-its-kind nature immersion experience that enhances the mind-body connection with somatic sensitizing exercises, aromatherapy, plant and animal communication, and the shamanic use of breath, earth, fire, and water.

Center facilities are available for:

- Therapists and their clients.
- Certified Guides taking individuals and groups on the Healing Nature Trail.
- Walking, sitting, and paddling meditators.
- Retreats, trainings, and workshops, presented by Center faculty and visiting instructors.

The Director's primary roles:

- Overseeing Center operations.
- Scheduling for Trail and labyrinth use, and for workshops and retreats.
- Guiding Trail walks, and overseeing other Certified Guides.
- Assisting with Healing Nature Trail Guide (HNG) Certification Trainings.
- Outreach and workshop/services development.
- Managing the Welcoming Center.
- Coordinating volunteers for Trail, labyrinth, and wildflower bed maintenance.

The ideal candidate for directorship holds a degree in psychology or one of the other healing arts, has a love of nature and a deep respect for her healing powers, and is an effective communicator.

Compensation includes on-site lodging (families are welcome), Paleo based food with wild meat and fish with organic fruits and vegetables, shared vehicle use, utilities, internet, a $350 stipend/month, and unlimited access to all Healing Nature Center resources as well as free canoe rentals, camping, and free or discounted courses from our outdoor wilderness school.
